1. Lab Name

SQL injection UNION attack, determining the number of columns returned by the query

2. Vulnerability Type

SQL Injection (SQLi)

3. Summary

Exploited a SQL injection vulnerability in the product category filter to determine how many columns the original SQL query was returning. This was achieved using the ORDER BY technique and later confirmed with UNION SELECT NULL payloads. Identifying the correct number of columns is a critical prerequisite for performing successful UNION-based SQL injection attacks.

4. Lab description (as per portswigger lab website)

This lab contains a SQL injection vulnerability in the product category filter. The results from the query are returned in the application's response, so you can use a UNION attack to retrieve data from other tables. The first step of such an attack is to determine the number of columns that are being returned by the query. You will then use this technique in subsequent labs to construct the full attack.

To solve the lab, determine the number of columns returned by the query by performing a SQL injection UNION attack that returns an additional row containing null values.

5. End Goal – Determine the number of columns returned by the query.

6. Theory:

Background knowledge (UNION query)

tabel1	tabel2
a b	c d
1 , 2	2 , 3
3 , 4	4 , 5

Query 1 - select a, b from table1

result - 1 , 2

3 , 4

Query 2 - select a, b from table1 UNION select c, d from table2

result - 1 , 2

3 , 4

2 , 3

4 , 5

Based on this, we can create a attack query such that it can retrieve real sensitive info from the database if the website is vuln to SQLi like:

select product1, product2 from table1 UNION select username, password from users

Rules for using the union operator:

- The number and the order of the columns must be the same in all queries.
- The data types must be compatible.

We can use different SQLi attack:

Way 1 (iterative attack):

- select ? from table1 UNION select NULL

- error -> incorrect number of columns

doing it iteratively

- select ? from table1 UNION select NULL, NULL, NULL

-200 response code -> correct number of columns

Way 2 (using order by clause):

select a, b from table1 order by 1

select a, b from table1 order by 2

select a, b from table1 order by 3

we can keep doing this until we get a internal server error, which is another way of determining the number of columns.

6. Analysis steps:

a. Confirmed SQL injection vulnerability

- Injected a single quote (') at the end of the URL after selecting any category.
- Application responded with Internal Server Error, confirming SQL syntax error → hence injectable.

b. Determined number of columns

Way 1 -

- Payloads tested in category filter URL:
 - ' UNION select NULL-- → internal server error.

1. Lab Name

SQL injection UNION attack, finding a column containing text.

2. Vulnerability Type

SQL Injection (SQLi)

3. Summary

Exploited a SQL injection vulnerability in the product category filter to identify which column in the query output could accept string data. This was done by systematically injecting UNION SELECT payloads with text values and observing whether the application displayed them. Once a column capable of displaying text was identified, it could later be used to extract sensitive data from the database.

4. Lab description (as per portswigger lab website)

This lab contains a SQL injection vulnerability in the product category filter. The results from the query are returned in the application's response, so you can use a UNION attack to retrieve data from other tables. To construct such an attack, you first need to determine the number of columns returned by the query. You can do this using a technique you learned in a previous lab. The next step is to identify a column that is compatible with string data.

The lab will provide a random value that you need to make appear within the query results. To solve the lab, perform a SQL injection UNION attack that returns an additional row containing the value provided. This technique helps you determine which columns are compatible with string data.

5. End Goal - Displaying the given string in the page.

6. Analysis steps:

SQL injection UNION attack, retrieving data from other tables

2. Vulnerability Type

SQL Injection (SQLi)

3. Summary

Exploited a SQL injection vulnerability in the product category filter to enumerate the number of columns, confirm column data types, and then perform a UNION SELECT attack to extract all usernames and passwords from the users table. Finally, logged in as the administrator user using the retrieved credentials.

4. Lab description (as per portswigger lab website)

This lab contains a SQL injection vulnerability in the product category filter. The results from the query are returned in the application's response, so you can use a UNION attack to retrieve data from other tables. To construct such an attack, you need to combine some of the techniques you learned in previous labs.

The database contains a different table called users, with columns called username and password.

To solve the lab, perform a SQL injection UNION attack that retrieves all usernames and passwords, and use the information to log in as the administrator user.

5. End Goal - Output the usernames and passwords in the users table and login as the administrator user.

Hydrated Crackers

At some time or another, we've all had that dry mouth feeling when eating a cracker. If we didn't, no-one would bet how many crackers we can eat in one sitting. Here at Barnaby Smudge, we have baked the solution. Hydrated Crackers. Each cracker has a million tiny pores which release moisture as you chew, imagine popping a bubble, it's just like that. No more choking or having your tongue stick to your teeth and the roof of your mouth. How many times have you asked yourself, 'why?' Why are these crackers so dry. We are responding to popular public opinion that dry crackers should be a thing of the past. You can set up your own cracker eating contests, but make sure you supply your own packet; explain you are wheat intolerant and have to eat these special biscuits, but no sharing. Due to the scientific process that goes into making each individual cracker the cost might seem prohibitive for something as small as a snack. But, we know you can't put a price on hydration, with the added bonus of not spitting crumbs at people. Pick up a packet today.

Waterproof Tea Bags

You knew one day this would finally come, and thanks to a small group of tea drinkers it has. We bring you the waterproof tea bag. Feedback from the tea drinkers society indicated that more people wanted to save money, and be conscious of the effect discarded tea bags could have on the environment. For generations now these environmentalist scimpers have been hanging their bags out to dry in order to re-use them at a later time. This is no longer necessary as these tea bags are 100% fully waterproof, they will be ready to use as many times as you like with little input or effort from you. This is welcome news for those teapot users who have been riddled with guilt over the number of bags they use per pot. It is now of no relevance whatsoever how many they use, as they will all come out completely dry and ready to use again. You can imagine these bags are a firm favorite with weak tea drinkers, for those who like a bit of a kick to their cuppa the bags have a handy resealable opening at the top. Just empty out the leaves, let them infuse and then decant back into the waterproof bag. Hey presto, ready to use again another day. Be ahead of the rest, this is an environmentally, and economically sound purchase not to be missed.

Designed for ultimate ease and safety, the BBQ Suitcase is an ideal gift for any loved one this summer who's great at grilling. This stylish suitcase design is also perfect for camping trips and music festivals. It's coal powered too to guarantee that extra flavour for your food and its stainless steel design means it's easy to clean and lightweight to carry around!

Sprout More Brain Power

At a time when natural remedies, things we can freely grow in our gardens, have their legality being questioned, we are delighted to inform you that Brussel Sprouts have now been added to the list. Yes, you can now happily order these healing gems directly from us with express shipping. As you can no longer grow these yourself due to the new restrictions being imposed on the product, indeed the penalty is high should you now attempt to do so, we are proud to be the first company to obtain a license for Sprout More Brain Power. Although the starting price seems astronomically high, one sprout can be divided into peelable layers. Each layer will enhance your performance at work for approximately two hours. If you find a dull brain moment coming on you can pop in another layer, but must not exceed the stated dose of one sprout per day. As tempting as it might be to do so, as your brain buzzes with award-winning ideas, excessive use can lead to social isolation and stomach pain. So don't delay, improve your prospects with your one a day, and Sprout More Brain Power.

Hydrated Crackers

At some time or another, we've all had that dry mouth feeling when eating a cracker. If we didn't, no-one would bet how many crackers we can eat in one sitting. Here at Barnaby Smudge, we have baked the solution. Hydrated Crackers. Each cracker has a million tiny pores which release moisture as you chew, imagine popping a bubble, it's just like that. No more choking or having your tongue stick to your teeth and the roof of your mouth. How many times have you asked yourself, 'why?' Why are these crackers so dry. We are responding to popular public opinion that dry crackers should be a thing of the past. You can set up your own cracker eating contests, but make sure you supply your own packet; explain you are wheat intolerant and have to eat these special biscuits, but no sharing. Due to the scientific process that goes into making each individual cracker the cost might seem prohibitive for something as small as a snack. But, we know you can't put a price on hydration, with the added bonus of not spitting crumbs at people. Pick up a packet today.

Sprout More Brain Power

At a time when natural remedies, things we can freely grow in our gardens, have their legality being questioned, we are delighted to inform you that Brussel Sprouts have now been added to the list. Yes, you can now happily order these healing gems directly from us with express shipping. As you can no longer grow these yourself due to the new restrictions being imposed on the product, indeed the penalty is high should you now attempt to do so, we are proud to be the first company to obtain a license for Sprout More Brain Power. Although the starting price seems astronomically high, one sprout can be divided into peelable layers. Each layer will enhance your performance at work for approximately two hours. If you find a dull brain moment coming on you can pop in another layer, but must not exceed the stated dose of one sprout per day. As tempting as it might be to do so, as your brain buzzes with award-winning ideas, excessive use can lead to social isolation and stomach pain. So don't delay, improve your prospects with your one a day, and Sprout More Brain Power.

Waterproof Tea Bags

You knew one day this would finally come, and thanks to a small group of tea drinkers it has. We bring you the waterproof tea bag. Feedback from the tea drinkers society indicated that more people wanted to save money, and be conscious of the effect discarded tea bags could have on the environment. For generations now these environmentalist scimpers have been hanging their bags out to dry in order to re-use them at a later time. This is no longer necessary as these tea bags are 100% fully waterproof, they will be ready to use as many times as you like with little input or effort from you. This is welcome news for those teapot users who have been riddled with guilt over the number of bags they use per pot. It is now of no relevance whatsoever how many they use, as they will all come out completely dry and ready to use again. You can imagine these bags are a firm favorite with weak tea drinkers, for those who like a bit of a kick to their cuppa the bags have a handy resealable opening at the top. Just empty out the leaves, let them infuse and then decant back into the waterproof bag. Hey presto, ready to use again another day. Be ahead of the rest, this is an environmentally, and economically sound purchase not to be missed.
